Albemarle enters into definitive agreement to sell Tribotecc Metal Sulfides business to Treibacher

November 5, 2015

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 5, 2015 /PRNewswire/ -- Albemarle Corporation (NYSE: ALB), a leading manufacturer of highly-engineered specialty chemicals, announced today that it has signed a definitive agreement to sell its Tribotecc metal sulfides business to Treibacher Industrie AG, an international leading player in the chemistry and metallurgy sectors. Included in the transaction are sites in Vienna and Arnoldstein, Austria and Tribotecc's proprietary sulfide synthesis process.

Albemarle's president and CEO Luke Kissam said, "This transaction furthers Albemarle’s strategic plan of focusing on our core bromine, lithium, catalysts and surface treatment businesses. This sale represents the optimal choice to maximize shareholder value for Albemarle while positioning Tribotecc to extend its track record of industry leadership, excellent customer service, and success going forward. I expect the strong foundation built by the Tribotecc team will enable continued success under new ownership."

"Today's announcement is another step in Treibacher's business development and continues our growth strategy," CFO Rainer Schmidtmayer said in a statement. "The acquisition of a global leading manufacturer of metal sulfides, located here in Carinthia, aligns with our long-term strategy to be an Austrian based innovative leader in high performance materials, providing high-quality products for differentiated markets worldwide."

The sale is subject to customary closing conditions and is expected to close by the end of 2015. Financial terms of the transaction were not disclosed.

BoA Merrill Lynch is acting as exclusive financial advisor to Albemarle in connection with this transaction.
